

Keep the internet neutral...no one except those with the chance to profit off of it wants to allow paying for faster service! It's sad that once again, this is being considered. In a society where the internet connect people to the degree ours does...eliminating net neutrality is akin to allowing corporations to capitalize on free speech, counter to the Constitution we have made for ourselves as a country.